Terralsole and Centini Restaurant cordially invite you to an exclusive Dinner with

Mario Bollag – Owner & Winemaker, founder of the Tè Solèy Foundation
Featuring: Wine Spectator's 2010 Top 100 Wines Producer - Terralsole

Tè Solèy is Haitian Creole for 'The Land and the Sun'. Tè Solèy is a San Francisco based 501c Non Profit Corporation that funds specific projects in Haiti to support needy children and families, trash disposal, education and agricultural development projects.

Tè Solèy kick starts these projects with the ultimate goal to run on their own becoming self sustaining ventures. Raising money thru grants and donations, Tè Solèy is also seeking business partners intrested in social entrepreneurship: The key words here are organic, sustainable and fair trade. Tè Solèy only funds projects which directly benefit the Hatian people.

Mario Bollag is the son of a Swiss lawyer from Basel. Although considered a dreamer, he was to follow his father's footsteps and also become a lawyer. Halfway through his studies he realized that his parents were right, that he was a dreamer and an adventurer! He headed immediately for California. He lived there fulfilling his needs for adventure and freedom. Destiny and his dreams were guiding him via Central Africa, India and Nepal to Haiti. He then moved back to San Francisco and began a Tour & Travel business. Although successful, it did not fulfill his passions nor did it support his dreams, which was to live in Tuscany, surround his senses with beauty and create world quality wines. This passion for wine and Tuscany brought him into the Montalcino hills where he finally found his home. He bought an old farmhouse and planted his first vineyards. The rest of his story you might as well taste in his wines...
